

All Pro Newton Deck Builders Expands Deck Services to Medford, MA

August 18, 2026

NEWTON, MA - August 18, 2026 -

All Pro Newton Deck Builders has extended its residential and commercial deck construction services into Medford, Massachusetts, giving homeowners in the city direct access to a Newton-based contractor with an established portfolio of custom outdoor living projects across Middlesex County. The expansion took effect this season and covers new deck construction, deck replacement, structural repairs, and railing and staircase upgrades throughout Medford neighborhoods including West Medford, Wellington, Glenwood, and the Lawrence Estates area.

The move responds to steady demand from Medford property owners who had previously contacted the company for estimates outside its earlier service radius. Company records indicate that inquiries originating from Medford ZIP codes rose noticeably over the past two years, prompting a formal expansion rather than continued case-by-case scheduling. Under the expanded coverage, Medford projects are handled by the same crews and project managers who oversee work in Newton, Brookline, Waltham, and Watertown.

The Medford service area includes design consultation, permitting assistance with the Medford Building Department, material sourcing, and full installation. Projects covered range from pressure-treated wood decks and cedar structures to composite systems from manufacturers such as Trex, TimberTech, and Azek, along with associated features like pergolas, built-in benches, privacy screens, and integrated lighting. Repair services address common issues found in older Medford homes, including joist deterioration, ledger board separation, and railing code compliance under the current Massachusetts State Building Code.

Medford, incorporated in 1630 and home to roughly 59,000 residents, contains a mix of Victorian, Colonial Revival, and mid-century housing stock, much of which features original or aging deck structures. Local permitting requirements call for stamped construction drawings on most new deck projects, and the company confirmed that its in-house design staff will prepare submissions on behalf of Medford clients. Standard project timelines from signed contract to completion are expected to run between three and eight weeks depending on scope, permit review, and material lead times.

"The decision to serve Medford directly reflects both consistent homeowner interest and the practical reality that crews were already passing through the city on the way to other jobs," said John Greene, Owner of All Pro Newton Deck Builders. "Formalizing the coverage area allows Medford residents to receive the same scheduling priority, warranty terms, and design support offered to longer-standing service communities," Greene added.

The expansion arrives during a period of measurable growth in the outdoor living construction segment. According to industry data published by the North American Deck and Railing Association, U.S. deck construction and replacement activity has continued to outpace pre-2020 levels, driven in part by sustained interest in home-based recreation space and by aging inventory reaching the end of its structural service life. Wood remains the most common decking material by volume nationally, while composite and PVC systems account for a growing share of replacement projects, a pattern reflected in the company's own Medford-area inquiries.

All work performed in Medford will be carried out under Massachusetts Home Improvement Contractor registration and Construction Supervisor licensing, with liability coverage extended to the expanded territory. Warranty terms for new deck construction include a workmanship guarantee alongside the manufacturer warranties provided by decking and railing suppliers. Greene noted that pricing structures for Medford projects mirror those in adjacent communities and are not subject to travel surcharges, an issue occasionally raised by prospective clients during initial consultations.

Homeowners considering a project can request an on-site measurement and written estimate through the company's Medford service page, which outlines the design process, material options, and typical project phases. The company has also indicated that seasonal scheduling for the current construction calendar is now open, with installation slots available through late fall subject to permit turnaround.

The expanded Medford coverage brings the company's total active service area to more than a dozen Greater Boston communities, with Newton continuing to serve as the operational base. Additional service territory decisions will be evaluated based on ongoing demand patterns and crew capacity through the 2026 and 2027 building seasons.
